THE ARGENTINE TAR.

Thanks to the patriotic intrusion of a naval officer's views in the press, public attention has been turned from the weary, every-day echoes of the crisis to a question at once interesting and attractive. The Argentine tar is a rare bird. The family is small, but not unsusceptible of development, and the thanks of the nation are due to the naval officer who proclaims the possibility of developing this neglected branch of the Argentine family. Sailors, from the early times of the Phœnicians, have always built up and maintained the strength of a people. Their adventurous spirit, their courage and their skill form the foundation of ultimate supremacy; and it is quite evident the Argentine Republic will remain weak so long as it does not produce its own sailors to man a fishing-smack or a gunboat.

Chile has excellent sailors; so has Brazil. Sarmiento acknowledged the Paraguayans, strangely enough, to be the best sailors in South America. But in this respect, in spite of all our great progress, the Argentine Republic lags behind. Our sailors are recruited from the deserters in the Boca, from the half-starved survivors of wrecks on the south-coast. Few Italians find their way to the riggings of our vessels, because the pick-axe affords a more lucrative employment, and the railways and port-works at this moment must have in all an imposing army of some 70,000 sturdy, frugal and unwashed Ausonians. The Italian is, nevertheless, an excellent sailor. His acquisition to our navy would be desirable, but far more desirable, advantageous and patriotic would it be to wake up the dormant seeds of those great navigators, the Spaniards, whose impress on this country neither time nor conquest will ever obliterate. The Argentine has in him all the stuff of a sailor, and such men as Admiral Cordero or Com. Rivadavia redeem the reputation which through indifference and other causes the descendants of the early Spaniards in this country are losing.

According to the constitution of the country, every Argentine is fit to be President, and, so far, the unanimous voice of the nation will admit that he makes a most excellent chief magistrate. But what the constitution does not set forth, yet which is a fact, is that every Argentine has in him the stuff of a good sailor. The Government has only to foment fisheries on our splendid though neglected coasts, and a family of skilful, courageous sailors will soon be called into existence. Not a fishing smack is to be seen on the whole coast. Is it a wonder, then, that the sailor should sleep, and that men spring up with vain projects to spend 20 or 30 millions in making ports when the commonest tar could inform our Deputies that nature has provided the Republic with the most exceptional ports which require not a copper of the Nation's cash to be rendered immediately available? Our neglected fisheries, and not the money of the Marine Office, nor the Steam Navigation Acts passed by our honourable Congressmen, most of whom do not know even how to swim, nor the Port-Prefect's state-barge, will quicken into life the elements which make up the sailor. If our fisheries were only in a primary stage of development, President Juarez, from the balcony of his palace in Paseo Julio, might have an opportunity of savoring that satisfaction which Xerxes must have felt when, seated on a provisional throne on a hill in Abydos, he could see on the one hand his land forces and on the other his fleet manned by his subjects. Nothing, we are sure, would give H.E. greater satisfaction.

The financial health of the country and the physical strength of the nation would be much better if the attention of the Cabinet were directed to the best means of salting fish, artificially propagating cod and lobsters, and if a branch of the country's wealth were to be measured by so many millions of young lobsters and oysters per annum. To this it must come. The Deputies will find out how foolish they were to throw out the fishery projects submitted to their consideration, and to speak solemnly and scientifically of catching fish by electricity. The age of extravagance and extravagant notions is passing away rapidly. In the meantime we are unconsciously and silently making room for the Argentine tar.

LONDON LETTER.

WEEK'S GOSSIP.

(From our own Correspondent.)

January 11

A fire at a printer's office has consumed much of the material for the General Post Office guides. In the guides before me for last week and this there is not a single mail to Buenos Ayres via Genoa. That must be an error. I mention the circumstance that those who do not receive letters may know the reason. There has been no regular mail this week but the present one, the Galicia. Fortunately, there has not been much happening. The Xmas holidays only finished on the 6th inst—Twelfth Night. Scandals, I am sorry to say, are still rife, and so much so that the continental press is amusing itself highly at our expense. We are so moral you know. The absurd prosecution of Mr. Newton, solicitor, and others for conspiracy drags on in a monotonous way in Bow Street. The boys are trotted out, but their evidence is very loose and wanting in piquancy. It relates principally to the means employed to get them off to Australia, and the whole thing looks like a sham—an effort of the government to retrieve its error in being itself the chief conspirator when it interfered with the police in July last. Meanwhile we were informed last night that Scotland Yard was busy with a new case of a similar kind, but that already the birds in high life had flown. We are to suppose that some obscure wretch will be again vicariously sacrificed on the altar of British justice, which has separate entrances and exists for vulgar sinners and for gentlemanly delinquents.

The Slavin—Smith fight at Bruges has in a manner been re-fought in the Pelican Club. The committee being brought to book for the supposed implication of some of the club members in the disgraceful conduct of the Smith corner at the fight, endeavoured to shield one important member, Mr. Baird, familiarly known on the turf as "Squire Abington." The members were not satisfied with the report and decision of the Committee. After a very stormy meeting the Committee had to resign. At this moment there is no Committee, unless it be Lord Queensbury, who supports the popular side in favour of the Australian, Slavin. After the meeting at the Pelican some of the members, in company with gentlemen connected with the "fancy", repaired to the Trocadero—or the "Troc", as we call it. The party, amongst others, consisted of that fellow Mitchel, the boxer, Mr. Baird, Lord Mandeville, "Pony" Moore, Jem Carney, Charles Bates, Bob Hobbigan, etc. Some dispute arose over the proceedings at the Pelican, and Mitchell struck at Abington, who, knowing how to take care of himself, squared up to the bruiser. In fact, Baird threw his coat off and danced up to his opponent in the most approved fashion. A regular set-to was prevented by the bystanders, but not before Mitchell had turned round and hit Mandeville squarely in the dial. Others then interfered, and Mitchell and Moore left the place. The police succeeded in pacifying the crowd inside and outside the "Troc". I regret not being there myself, but really what, with the infamous weather and the influenza, society and social duties are out of the question. Peter Jackson, the redoubtable coloured pugilist, leaves for Liverpool on Wednesday next on his way to San Francisco. He says he is about to make early arrangements to meet Sullivan, for $15,000, the winner to take all. The contest will probably take place in March. He speaks also of fighting Slavin, and gently hints that he intends to make short work of him. Mr. Jackson seems to speak modestly and in a cultured and gentlemanly tone. He is very complimentary to the English, and particularly to the people in Dublin, for the kind and fair treatment he has received. He ventures no opinion on the Slavin-Smith affair at Bruges. The nigger evidently has a pious opinion in regard to the Smith-corner. He is a great stickler for the Queensbury rules and thinks "field-fighting" about done up. The mode of dropping and taking 30 seconds rest on your back—"back" is not the the word Mr. Jackson used—he thinks destruction of fair fighting, which means hitting and no nonsense.

One of the very little sensations of the week has been the Penny Postage Jubilee and the laying of wreaths on the statue of Sir Rowland Hill. I begin to think my contemporaries boys, and see the value of history as "she is spoken". One of the illustrated newspapers gives a grand picture of "Fifty Years Ago", with the mail coaches leaving St. Martin's le Grand and Piccadilly, and with passengers dressed a la d'Orsay. In the course of my life I have seen that very picture a hundred times. "Fifty years ago" sounds well and inspires a love of antiquity, but I remember coming to school in London fifty years ago by rail from Liverpool and watching for Primrose Hill and the big dwelling houses in the outskirts of London which were just as they are now, and when mail coaches were beginning to be almost as much of a curiosity as they are now, and when men at least dressed very much as they do now. The picture refers to seventy or eighty years ago. The first penny post "illustrated" envelope I remember very well, as it is given in the Graphic or "Illustrated" of to-day. The adhesive stamd came later and was invented by a man who aught to have a statue.

BRITISH ULTIMATUM TO PORTUGAL.

OUR CONSULATE ATTACKED

EXCITEMENT IN LISBON.

Lisbon, Jan 12th.(Night)

An ultimatum from the British Government arrived here yesterday demanding the recall of the Portuguese forces, officials, and expeditions of any kind whatever from the banks of the Shire River beyond the confluence of the Ruo and south of the Zambesi and Mashonsland. This ultimatum was communicated verbally to Senhor de Barros Gomes by Mr Petre, who requested a reply within twenty-four hours. Failing to receive it in that time, the British Minister and the whole staff of the Legation would leave the country, in view of which eventuality his Excellency would await the reply at Vigo, on board the British despatch vessel Enchantress.

In consequence of this ultimatum the Council of State met at the Palace yesterday evening, under the presidency o the King, the sitting lasting until one o'clock this morning.

After learning the views of the Council the Government replied to Mr Petre that, yielding to the strong pressure of a Power of the first rank against which Portugal had not sufficient strength to contend, it would order the withdrawal of its forces from the Shire district and Mashonaland while reserving all the rights of the Portuguese Crown in those territories.

In further explanation of the resolution of the Portuguese Cabinet, the British Government was credited with the intention of making naval demonstrations at Quilimane, Delagoa Bay, and St. Vincent (Cape Verd Islands), this opinion being strengthened by the reports from the Portuguese Consuls at Gibraltar and Zanzibar and the Governor of St Vincent of the concentration of British naval forces.

Regarding the stages of the negotiations prior to the events recorded above it is stated here that they appeared to be pursuing a regular course when on the 5th inst. Mr. Petre handed to Senhor de Barros Gomes a despatch of an unlooked-for tenor, considering the state of the negotiations at that date.

The Portuguese Government despatched on the 8th inst. a reply which should have reached London yesterday evening.

It is stated to have expressed willingness to meet the wishes of the British Government, and to have declared that the Portuguese Government would not make any military expedition in the Shiré region and Mashonaland, being confident, on its side, of meeting with just reciprocity from Great Britain. The "status quo" would be maintained until an understanding was arrived at between the two Governments on the subject of their respective spheres of action in that part of South Africa.

In the hypothesis of the impossibility of an agreement Portugal would invoke Article 12 of the Berlin Conference, which stipulates that, in the event of a conflict between Powers having signed the act of the conference regarding territories to which this act refers, such Powers reciprocally engage to settle the dispute by the mediation of another of the Signatory Powers. It would, however, be permissable to resolve the difference by arbitration.

Mr. Petre, in a memorandum which he presented to the Portuguese Government on Friday last, expressed satisfaction at the acceptance in principle by the latter of the British demands, but asked for explanations in reference to the non-withdrawal of the Portuguese forces.

It is stated that the Cabinet had not replied to this memorandum when the British Minister presented his ultimatum yesterday.

Lisbon, Jan. 12th (10 30 p.m.)

Great excitement prevails in this city to-night. Disorderly bands of people, including a number of students, have been parading the streets shouting "Down with the Ministry!" which cry was also uttered by a number of persons outside the Belem Palace.

An excited mob assembled outside the British Consulate, and, in spite of the fact that it was guarded by police, broke the windows and threw the escutcheon bearing the Royal arms to the ground. Several arrests were made.

The windows of various Ministers' residences were also broken.

The British Legation is guarded by police.

A large crowd assembled outside the offices of the Société Géographique, but no disturbance occurred, the people subsequently dispersing quietly.

A rumour is current to-night that Senhor de Barros Gomes will offer his resignation to the King.

Zanzibar, Jan. 11th

Her Majesty's cruiser Boadicea, flagship of Rear-Admiral Fremantle's East India squadron, accompanied by the Calliope, Garnet, Turquoise, Satellite, Algerine, Reindeer, Pigeon, and Stork, left this place to-day, sailing southwards, but for what destination is not known.

Zanzibar, Jan. 12th.

Her Majesty's cruiser Garnet and the surveying vessel Stork have returned here.

Lisbon, Jan. 14th [10.0 p.m.]

A party of students marched this evening to the Camoens monument, and covered with a veil, as a mark of mourning, the statues of the old Portuguese navigators which surround the memorial. A large crowd collected to watch the proceedings, and cries of "Down with the English!" "Down with the Pirates!" were raised, but no disturbance took place.

Oporto, Jan. 14th [8.50 a.m.]

Last night noisy crowds paraded the streets of this city, cheering for the independence of Portugal and the integrity of the country, and shouting "Down with England!"

Stones were thrown at the British Consulate, which is now guarded by police. The mob finally dispersed quietly.

The Civil Governor has declined to grant permission for holding the meetings projected by the students for this evening, to protest against Great Britain's action in the Anglo-Portuguese difficulty.

The students who had assembled in the streets dispersed quietly on being informed of the Governor's decision, giving cheers as they separated, for Major Serpa Pinto and the integrity of Portugal.

Madrid, Jan. 14th.

The Madrid press continue their denunciations of Great Britain's conduct in the conflict with Portugal, expressing admiration for Portugal's patriotic protest, and advising that country to maintain a firm attitude.

The news from Lisbon is discussed with great interest in Spanish Republican circles.

The Federal Club in this capital has passed a resolution congratulating the Portuguese people upon their energetic protest and the apparent Republican tendency of the popular demonstrations.

Gibraltar, Jan. 14th.

The British Channel Squadron sailed hence this afternoon, but its destination is unknown.

Her Majesty's ironclads Benbow and Colossus remain here.

London, Jan.1890

Lord Salisbury's recent ultimatum to Portugal, with the other despatches relating to the dispute, is published. In acknowledging the promise of the Portuguese Government to comply with the demands, the noble Marquis expresses a hope that the orders issued to the Portuguese commanders in Africa may be such as to completely settle the difference which has arisen.

The remains of Lord Napier of Magdala will be interred in St Paul's Cathedral about noon on Tuesday. The ceremony will be conducted with the honours usually paid on the death of a Field-Marshall.

Sir M. Hicks Beach yesterday informed a deputation that he would assent to an inquiry into the operation of the Carriers Act by a Committee of the House of Commons, if it could be shown that advantage might result from it.

Mr. C. M. Talbot, who has represented the county of Glamorgan, as a Liberal, uninterruptedly since 1830, and was, therefore, the oldest member of the House of Commons, died at his Welsh residence yesterday morning.

The trustees of the Chelsea Savings Bank have, in consequence of the discovery of a deficit, closed that Institution, and it is stated that immediate steps will be taken to wind up its affairs.

An elderly married couple named Hill, who lived with a married daughter named Palling, at Chiswick, recently induced the latter to give a bill of sale upon her husband's furniture as security for a horse and cab which Mr. Hill was to drive. The business was not successful, and a broker was put in possession of the house. On Tuesday the old people went along the river path towards Richmond, and after the man had tied their arms together with a handkerchief, they drowned themselves. On hearing of their fate Mrs. Palling attempted to commit suicide. At the inquest yesterday, the Jury found that the deceased were of unsound mind.

At Plumpton yesterday, Lord Westbury won the Hunters' Flat-race with Winscales, Mr. E. Woodland the Paddock Selling Hunters' Hurdle-race with Rosier and the January Hurdle Handicap with Zelotes, Lord Rendlesham the New Year's Hunters' Steeple-chase with Swindler and the Worthing Selling Hunters' Steeple-chase with Adelaida, and Mr. C. Mason the Ditchling-Hunters' Hurdle-race with Gadabout.

Evidence for the defence in the City extortion case having been called yesterday, Sir C. Russell addressed the Jury on behalf of the Defendant, Claude Marks. He submitted that the whole case for the prosecution rested on the statements made by Marcus Bebro, to whom he imputed motives of vengeance against the Marks family. Mr. Cockwood rested the case of Charles Woolf on the defence set up for Marks. Mr. Bigham having addressed the Jury on behalf of James Marix, the Solicitor General's reply for the prosecution and the Lord Chief Justice's summing up were reserved till Monday.

The compositor, named Wier, who made a violent speech in Hyde Park to the gas stokers on strike, was tried yesterday, at the Central Criminal Court, on the charge of inciting to the murder of Mr. Liversey, the Chairman of the South Metropolitan Gas Company. At the close of the Counsel's speech, which admitted that the Prisoner had used intemperate language that he now deeply regretted, Wier pleaded guilty. He was ordered to enter into his recognisances to come up for judgment if called upon.

Money was quoted at 5 to 6 per cent. yesterday. The discount rate was 5 per cent. with bills taken for abroad at 4⅞ per cent. Prices hung fire on the Stock Exchange, and lost rather than gained. Consols remained at 97⅛ ⅜ for cash. The Bank bought £13,000 of bar gold.

Berlin, Jan. 17th.

I am in a position to state that the attitude of Germany in the Anglo-Portuguese dispute has not in the least changed since the quarrel first began to assume an acute form. The German Government continues to maintain the strictest reserve, and is firmly resolved to abstain from all interference. All rumours as to Germany accepting the position of arbitrator, convening an international Conference, offering her good offices to settle the dispute, or making friendly representations in London in favour of the Portugese Throne—which, by the way, people here do not believe to be threatened—are altogether without foundation.

If the new Portuguese Minister of Foreign Affairs really intends to appeal to Prince Bismarck on the ground of the Congo Act, I fancy he is hardly likely to receive an answer calculated to give him much satisfaction. The main condition of any action being taken by Prince Bismarck would be that Great Britain as well as Portugal should ask his mediation; but this condition is wanting, besides which the Congo Article referred to has not been violated. No appeal on England's part is expected in Berlin, and leading Statesmen here are convinced that England and Portugal will do best to settle the matter between themselves. Nor is it doubted that they will arrive at an amicable agreement, as they are both equally averse to war.

CONSUL BAKER ON THE PORT WORKS.

By a recent mail we received from Washington a compilation of United States Consuls' reports. We make the following extracts:—

PORT WORKS OF BUENOS AYRES.

Report by Consul Baker.

At last I am able to announce that Buenos Ayres has a port. The standing joke, first perpetrated by President Sarmiento that the people of this city were first called 'porteños' (belonging to the port) on the principle of contraries, because they had no port" is no longer applicable. It is at last an accomplished fact. There is no longer any necessity for even the largest class of ocean steamers anchoring twelve miles from the shore; there is no longer any necessity for paying the excessive charges for lighterage, sometimes amounting to more than the entire freight from the Europe or the United States, which during all these years has constituted an enormous tax upon importations to the Argentine Republic. The first section, or basin, of what is to be a port large enough to answer all the necessities of the commerce of the country for centuries to come, was duly inaugurated and opened to the public yesterday.

The inception of the movement for the construction of this great work dates back half a century, to the days of Rivadavia, the liberator of the country from Spanish rule, but the magnitude of the enterprise and the expense which it involved placed it beyond the means of the infant Republic. It rested as an undeveloped idea until 1860, when Señor Eduardo Madero, one of the wide-awake, progressive men of the nation, presented himself to the Government and proposed to build a dock "in front of the viceroy's custom-house", and to dredge a channel thence to the deepest part of the River Plate. The proposal was submitted to engineers for examination, and a report was made by them approving the project. But here the matter rested. Congress doubted the feasibility of the scheme; or, in the unsettled condition of the country, thought the time inopportune for embarking in the enterprise.

Meanwhile a counter-project was brought forward and approved, utilizing for the purposes of a port the Riachuelo River, a little stream (very like the Chicago River) which runs through the city and empties into the River Plate; and during the last twelve years the work of deepening the channel of this stream and building a mole, or levee, along the same has been steadily prosecuted by the Government. In connection with it a channel, or canal, has been dredged 6 or 7 miles out to the deep waters of the River Plate, capable of receiving vessels drawing 24 feet of water, thus affording a provisional port for the city and greatly assisting not only the river but the ocean commerce of Buenos Ayres.

It was this provisional port which delayed and postponed the greater work which Señor Madero proposed. In the face of all the support he could bring to bear upon the scheme, and in spite of the approvals successively of Presidents Mitre, Sarmiento, and Avellaneda, it was not until the administration of President Roca that the sanction of the national Congress was finally given to the project—just twenty-five years after it was first proposed. Upon the plans and estimates drawn up by Señor Madero the enterprise was quickly floated in England. On the bonds of the nation the means necessary to construct the work were secured without difficulty. The contracts were made, and in 1885 the work of construction was commenced. In the face of all manner of difficulties, and in spite of the repeated destruction of unfinished embankments by southeast storms so common in the River Plate, the enterprise has never been stopped for a moment. Gradually we have seen the great project assume its massive present proportions.—Economist.

WHAT A GERMAN PHYSICIAN SAW IN THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

An exchange says:—

"Not long since Professor Wilhelm Loewenthal, a German physician, was invited by the Argentine Government to visit the Republic, to investigate the sanitary conditions in the European agricultural settlements there. After a stay of more than three months he has now returned from Buenos Ayres to Paris, and is, we are informed, preparing a minute report for the Argentine Government, which presumably will be ultimately published. He visited many German, Belgian and Russian settlements in the Province of Corrientes, and there found conditions to exist of the most deplorable character. Few, if any, of the promises made to the immigrants in their contracts had been fulfilled. He discovered that these unfortunate people had been compelled to camp out for months without shelter, the promised houses not having been built, and they were also forced to remain idle, because the implements, seed and working cattle, which had been promised to them, were not forthcoming. Exposed to hunger, disease, and all the influences of the weather, the rate of mortality amongst them was frightful; and to render their position hopeless, they were kept like prisoners, so that they could utter no public complaint. Professor Loewenthal made a representation to the persons at the head of these agricultural enterprises, when he was assured that they had themselves been deceived by their officials, and, in fact, knew nothing of the real state of the settlements. They promised however to furnish all that was wanting without delay. On his return to Buenos Ayres, Professor Loewenthal, at their request, drew up a short report for the German Minister and the German Consul there, and he is satisfied that they will now take care that justice is done to the German immigrants. The French and Belgian Ministers likewise requested similar reports. We may remark that Professor Loewenthal's general impression seems to be that the natural conditions of successful colonization by Europeans exist in Argentina to the fullest extent, but that the conditions to which the immigrant has to adapt himself at present are very far from satisfactory. He states, however, that the Argentine authorities are most desirous to remove such evils when proved to exist".

Railway Items.

Our Rosario exchanges yesterday contained two complaints in regard to the railways running through that rising city. It appears that there is always a rush for tickets in the Central Argentine Station, and no provision has been made to cope more speedily with the demand for fares. There is nothing very serious about this, and the evil will, no doubt, be soon remedied. What sounds of a graver character is what our colleagues call "the rivalry between the Central Argentine and the Rosario Railways!" Wagons from one company meet with a good many obstacles on the rails of the other, the result being that vexatious delays ensue and the public is often put to inconvenience. The attention of Dr. Araoz has been called to this irregularity.

Six new carriages and a locomotive have come out for the Northern Railway.

The Pacific Railwny Company have been authorised to build a provisional station near the waterworks.

The plans recently presented by the Board of the Villa Maria and Rufino Railway have been approved by Government.

Our London colleague Railway News is at present publishing a series of letters from its correspondent here on the principal railways in the country. The following is an extract from the last published:—

"Bahia Blanca and North-Western Railway. This railway is the property of an English company with its head-quarters at Dashwood House, and with a capital of £2,000,000, of which £1,350,000 is in 13,500 preferred shares of £100 each, and £650,000 in 65,000 ordinary shares of £100 each. The preferred shares are entitled to a cumulative dividend of 6 per cent per annum, payable half-yearly, and to one half the surplus net profits of each year remaining after meeting the obligations of the concession and the payment of a non-cumulative dividend of 6 per cent on the ordinary shares. The other half of such surplus profits will belong to the ordinary shares. The total amount of the annual interest paid by the National Government is £235,853, which is guaranteed for twenty years. The total length of the line, which is being constructed by John G. Meiggs, Son and Co, is 1,188¼ kil., about 738 miles.

The concession was originally granted by the National Government to Abreu, Torres and Co. and was for a line from the port of Bahia Blanca, in the southern portion of the province of Buenos Aires to Villa Mercedes in the Province of San Luis and to Rio Cuarto in the Province of Cordoba. Villa Mercedes is the actual junction of the Pacific, Great Western, and Andine lines, and is the proposed starting point for several others. The Bahia Blanca and North-Western Railway, after leaving the terminal port, will pass the towns of General Acha and Toay in the territory of the Pampas. From a point near the town of Toay a branch will pass north-westerly to Victorica, and then go due north to Villa Mercedes, in San Luis. Another branch will go due north from Toay and cross the Rio Quinto near Potta Necochea; the B. Ayres and Pacific Railway near Mackenna, and would finally terminate at Rio Quarto in the Province of Cordoba which is a station on the Andine Railway. According to the terms of the concession the line is to be commenced within one year of the plans being handed in, and to be completed within six years. The gauge is to be 5ft.6 in., and the permanent way is to be as well made as the Andine line. A guarantee of 5 per cent is given for twenty years on a cost not exceeding $20,000 gold per kil. All profits above 5 per cent. to be handed over to the Government until the amount paid under the guarantee clause has been repaid. All land belonging to the nation is to be given free.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The daily bread question was still that of the day yesterday. Many families had to do without bread all day long; and the "confiterias" did a roaring business in 'pan dulce' and everything that sweetly resembled the "staff of life". There are three thousand working bakers on strike, and, at a meeting held by 500 of them in the morning, it was decided to continue without work till their demands (reasonable enough) are complied with by the master bakers. The latter will have to yield; there is no escape.

There will be the usual forenoon service and Sunday School at the Scotch Church to-morrow. There will also be service at the Presbyterian Church, Barracas. But, owing to Carnival, there will be no evening service in the Scotch Church.

On the 1st proximo we shall have the pleasure of welcoming into the editorial bus a new colleague, La Argentina, a morning newspaper representing the National Government. From what we can gather, no expense has been spared to launch our new colleague full-fledged into the arena of journalism, and, if we are not much mistaken, it will fill the void felt since the demise of the Tribuna Nacional. Mr. Charles Lix-Klett will have charge of the commercial, financial and telegraphic section of the newspaper, and, knowing what he can do and has done in this line in the Tribuna, we may prophesy long life and great success to the Argentina. In some quarters the new paper will be regarded as the organ of the President of the Republic. Its printing office will be in Calle San Martin, nearly in front of General Roca's residence.

Hundreds of citizens took the late trains to the camp yesterday for the Carnival holidays, and hundreds more will follow this evening. Carnival has lost its former attractions for the better class of the community, and it is a good sign that it has. Nevertheless, the list of "comparsas" is as formidable as we ever remember it. The greatest interest is awakened by "Los Turcos," and the procession of the Sultan.

According to some of the Rio Janeiro papers, the Misiones question is far from settled yet.

A match between the Lomas and the Rovers' Polo Clubs will be played at Temperley on Monday afternoon next.

In announcing yesterday the appointment of the distinguished Colonel Garmendia as Director of the Military School, a slip of either the pen or the printer made us say Colonel Gaudencio. We beg to correct the error.

The English papers announce the death of the excellent lady who was officially called, under the absurd Royal Marriage Law of England, Mrs Fitz-George, but who was really Duchess of Cambridge, wife of the Duke of Cambridge, Commander in Chief of the British Army.

The Red Star Agency twinkled on us again yesterday in broad noon day with a big batch of late English papers, for which we beg to thank it. The case of Lord Euston, son and heir of the Duke of Grafton, against the North London Press, a third class sheet, for libel, has ended in the editor being sentenced to a year's imprisonment; and Mr Justice Hawkins, in passing sentence, said it was one of the most infamously got-up cases that had ever come before the Bench.

The engine (No. 78) of the train leaving the Central Station last evening, went off the line in the station. There was a long delay, and the train left at eight instead of half-past six o'clock.

The proprietors of the Alhambra have completed all their arrangements for Carnival, and open the place to-night with a masquerade ball that promises unusual attractions, foremost of which are the Spanish "gitanas," whose native dances are well worth going to see, even by those who have no intention of doing anything on "the light fantastic toe" themselves. Mr Nicolas, the manager, has, we are given to understand, some other pleasant surprises in store for those who patronize the Alhambra during Carnival.

We deeply sympathise with ex-Lord Mayor Cranwell on the death of his son, a fine young lad of 17, carried off by fever after a short illness. The funeral yesterday was very largely attended.

A match was played at Palermo on Saturday between an eleven of the Buenos Aires Cricket Club and the Pacific Railway, time not permitting it to be played out. The Buenos Aires cricket club got 194, Hill playing a fine hard hitting innings for 82 not out, Forde got 30. The Pacific lost two wickets for forty-four, Archer and Baker being not out with 21 and 10. Next week some good cricket may be looked forward to at Palermo. Our old friends the Montevideanos play Buenos Aires on the 17th and 18th and Rosario on the 19th and 20th. It is some years since we have had an eleven playing here from the Montevideau cricket club, and, we have no doubt, they will render a good account of themselves in the matches here next week, as they have been practising regularly of late; and we wish we could say the same of the Buenos Aires, who, when they do go to Palermo, are much more frequently seen with a racquet instead of a bat in their hands. The club here will not play their full strength, as on the 17th and 18th they also play the Rosario cricket club at Rosario, so a division of forces was necessary; and we are sorry to know that a good many of those chosen to go to Rosario are unable to do so, consequently the eleven playing there will be much weaker than was intended it should be. Some ladies have kindly signified their intention of providing tea and cake on the afternoons of Monday and Tuesday at Palermo.

A London colleague says;—

"The Dublin Freeman's Journal tells a striking story in this advertisement;

'Woman.—Wanted, humble country woman, about fifty, to do housework, two in family; must be sober and strictly honest; all found, and wages £4 a year. Address—5034, Freeman Office.

"The foregoing advertisement, offering a woman of fifty years of age a trifle over 1/6 a week, is one of the worst specimens of domestic "sweating" we ever heard of. We should much like to meet 5034 alone on a dark night when no one could hear the "whisper" of a thick stick."

If people are swindled by the hackney drivers of the city during Carnival, it will be their own fault. The Carriage Inspection Office at 25 Bolivar has established a special service during the three days, and the fines provided will make even the most truculent and dishonest 'whip' pause before exposing himself to them. The usual fares and fines are as follows:—

For 20 squares—50 cents.

Per hour—$1 for the first, 80 cents for the rest, and quarter hours in proportion. Fine 20 dollars for overcharge or pretending to be engaged when called.

Emperor William's prohibition of his own and family's portraits being circulated amongst his beloved subjects without his permission is a decidedly funny proceeding, and will not increase his popularity.

Father Denza, the famous Italian astronomer, intends visiting the River Plate in May next. If he has never seen the Southern heavens before, they will be a rich treat for him.

"Polypus" is the latest name which the irate Portuguese have invented for England. Little boys too often call names to big ones when threatened with a cuffing for misbehaviour.

The Prensa published some interesting figures yesterday giving the emigration from this republic last year. The total was 40,649, against an immigration of 289,014, leaving a net gain for the country of 240 365. We very much doubt if half the 40,649 were permanent emigrants. Some, no doubt, went home with fortunes to live permanently in their native land; but most of them only went for a trip, and came or will come back.

The latest influenza theory has been broached in Rio and is that the disease is like a flea, and gives great jumps from place to place. The microbes generally travel very high up in the air, and whenever they see a nice place like Buenos Ayres, drop on it. Very few of them took a fancy to Rio. It's a pity that the new Republic has wiped out titles, otherwise the sapient doctors who started this new theory might be made Baraos and have a hatful of crosses bestowed on them for their valuable contribution to medical science.

Talking of Barons, the particular sample of that ilk, Baron Ladario, who may be said to have contributed most to hurry on the Brazilian revolution, has recovered, we are happy to say, from the wounds inflicted on him on that patriotic occasion.

The Police edict for Carnival was published yesterday: No water. No pomitos. The only missles allowed will be flowers and cut paper. This settles the matter. Better get a thorny rose in the eye than go home soaked with 'pomito' water, with the dead certainty of catching influenza and perhaps figuring in the "defunciones" column of the Civil Register before the week expired. It is well for heads of families to bear in mind and impress on the members thereof and on their servants the unpleasant fact that, if liquid of any kind is thrown from the house, the head of it will have to fork Affairs in Montevideo are beginning to show the silver lining to a most pronounced extent now, and stocks are booming up all round. The Obras were quoted this evening at 43, and National Bank shares at 112.

In exchange, brokers report that there are very few takers, owing to the advance in gold. The rates were quoted to-day at 47½d to ¼d and 4.97 francs Paris and 4.99 francs Antwerp.

Business at the second hour began with a vigorous spurt in gold, which boomed for all dates, opening at 224½ cash, 225½ for the end of the month and 226 for the end of July; fortunately these rates could not be maintained by the bulls, and after some fluctuation, rates fell away to close at 223½ cash, 224 for the end of the month, and 224.40 for the end of March. Stocks were very dull and weak, Catalinas closing at 44, Constructors at 70 and Obligations at 6. Cedulas were quiet.

The appointment of Mr. Lewis Baker as American Vice-Consul, although pretty generally known round town last month, was only confirmed by this mail. A worthy "chip of the old block", Mr. Baker, although, scarcely a year yet amongst us, has so ingratiated himself with the ship-captains, merchants and all who have dealings with the Consulate as almost to excite paternal envy. The Consul is now 16 years in harness without a day's rest; and should he think, of taking a run home for a short vacation the new vice will be emphatically found the right man in the right place.

The following mail steamers are posted to leave :—
